Dear Paul:

It was a delight for Elissa and you to come to see us and let us wallow in your enthusiasm for the Myer Myers artistry among other things.

We thank you for the Barquist book which is not only beautiful but packed with fascinating detail. The early history of Jewry in New York was an unusual introduction. You helped support a wonderful project.

Fortunately, I have found in the book what I have been looking for concerning John Burger who "regulated" gold coins and who apparently was not an apprentice to Myer Myers but a co-worker during the American Revolution.

I will look up my Myer Myers teaspoon to see which mark it has.

Evelyn joins me in wishing you a wonderful trip to Zaire.

With much appreciation,

Sincerely,

Eric
